

To the Right Honorable, the Knights, Citizens and Burghesses of the Commons-house now Assembled in Parliament;

The Humble Petition of Ferdinando Adams, Humphrey Paynter, Jeremy Kempfall, and others,

1.98

Humbly sheweth,

Hat your Petitioners did in January 1659 carry into his Majesties [redacted] Two thousand three hundred pair of Neates Leather shooes, for the Forces then in Dunkirke, being at that time in great necessity, which at Two shillings eight pence per pair, come to Three hundred and six pound, thirteen shillings four pence; As is certified by the then Officers of the Ordinance, under their hands the Twentieth of January 1659. whereupon your Petitioners the Thirteenth of March then next following had an Order from the then Commissioners of the Admiralty and Navy, to Richard Hutchinson then Treasurer of the Navy, to pay the said sum unto your Petitioners accordingly.

Now forasmuch as the same remain still unpaid, and that your poor Petitioners are in great necessities, and for want of the said Monies some of them have been Arrested, Troubled, Imprisoned and almost Ruined, and must of necessity perish, unless timely relieved by your Honors Justice and Mercy:

Your Petitioners therefore humbly beseech your Honors to take Compassion on them (being poor Tradesmen) and to order the Treasurer of his Majesties Navy or Officer of the Ordinance forthwith to pay unto them the said sum of Three hundred and six pound, thirteen shillings four pence.

And as in duty bound shall ever pray, &c.
